Fairfax County Public Schools has a long history of promoting excellence in school bus driver training to both prepare and keep our drivers ready for their duties. Due to our size and turnover, we train over 100 new drivers annually.

Recently, our bus training center was moved from a renovated shop classroom that was subdivided at a local high school to a newer location that better provides for our instructional needs.

With the advantage of more space at our new location, we have added some additional training aids in the classrooms to make the learning experience both easier and more enjoyable. One of these areas is the Special Needs Classroom. In the rear of the classroom is a school bus… well, part of one anyway.

AUG 26 2011

[redacted] still

DANGER ZONES

[redacted] tparker@fcps.edu [redacted]